

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

11

---

II. ITALIAN SOCIETY IN 2008

---

1. THE FINANCIAL MELTDOWN: REACTIONS AND DEFENSES	25
The non-cyclic nature of Italy's economic system	25
The overall staying power of businesses	28
Italian households and their self-protection strategies	29
Moderate consumption guarantees a good lifestyle	32
2. TOWARDS THE SECOND METAMORPHOSIS	39
Increasingly global players	39
From immigrants to new Italians	41
Women's increasing role in society	43
Living together in the mega-cities	45
We, digital mutants	49
3. FACTORS OF INTERNAL VULNERABILITY	53
The South: two territories, one nation	53
Neither with the state, nor the market: Italians' disoriented polycentrism	55
The hazards of "devalued employment"	58
The Italians' "unorthodox normality"	59
The ambiguous power of events	61

---

III. AREAS OF SOCIAL POLICY

---

1. EDUCATION AND TRAINING	65
Training for lifelong learning	65
Upper secondary school: how and where to intervene according to educational managers	68
University: scenarios and strategies for a chronic patient	71
Is training in the Public Administration truly effective?	74
"Knowledge exports" do well	79
2. THE LABOR MARKET	83
Uncertainties in the job market	83
The world of public-sector employment	84
Flexibility as the lesser evil	88
Businesswomen's inadequate involvement in public life	89
Renewed trust in the intellectual professions	92

3. THE WELFARE SYSTEM	95
Thirty years with the national healthcare system: how Italy and the health of Italians have changed	95
Donations and transplants: when the service network is effective	97
Italians have a mature approach to the use of pharmaceuticals	98
Families with children receive little help	99
The fragile pillar of supplementary pension schemes	101
4. TERRITORY AND NETWORKS	105
Turin-Lyon: from street scuffles to agreements on development strategies	105
The seaport system as a business and as a stimulus for territorial development	108
The Italians and the city: the spirit of modernity in the urban dimension	110
The housing issue and the role of territorial housing agencies	112
Reassuring food: "local produce" do away with fears and uncertainties	115
5. THE ECONOMIC PLAYERS	119
Multiform innovation in order to cope with the market crisis	119
The new forms of internationalization	123
The emerging entrepreneurship of migrants	125
The pathways of innovation in Italy's agricultural system	127
The land-sea cluster for efficient logistics	129
Consumption, loans and indebtedness: inside and beyond the crisis of households	131

---

IV. MEANS AND PROCEDURES

---

1. COMMUNICATIONS AND MEDIA	137
The digital revolution towards the multiplication and integration of media	137
European youths and their relationship to the media: beyond standardization	139
Vices and virtues of generalist television	140
The ambiguous drift of communication in the political debate	142
The fear-mongering Italian media	146
The force of localism in communication	147
Festivals and queues: for an anthropology of cultural consumption	150
The revival of Italian cinema	150

2. PUBLIC GOVERNANCE	153
The 2008 general elections: local agreements prevail but the desire for a strong central administration grows	153
The reverse approach to personal safety	155
Reconsidering strategies for representation in Brussels	157
Tourism policies round the mark	159
Sports policies: the required shift in logic	162
3. SECURITY AND CITIZENRY	165
Local police forces burdened with more tasks	165
Counterfeiting: few risks and a great deal of money	166
Corruption, a hidden and unsolved problem	168
Bullying seen through the eyes of parents	171
The risk of dispersing the integration of immigrants in school	173
Mixed marriages: lights and shadows of an emerging phenomenon	175

---

APPENDIX

---

LOOKING THROUGH FIGURES	181
Foreword	183
Tables	185
BACKGROUND	231
I. Societal self-awareness: from great goals to the emergence of spontaneous processes (1967-1971)	233
II. From the "submerged" to the "emerged" economy (1972-1977)	237
III. The pride of stability (1978-1981)	241
IV. Difficult relations between society and institutions (1982-1983)	243
V. Consolidation and the need for maturity (1984-1987)	247
VI. Beyond proliferation (1988-1992)	251
VII. From revolutionary euphoria to an endless, wearisome transition (1993-1998)	255
VIII. Something is moving in the enduring static nature of Italy's atomized society (1999-2002)	259
IX. From the search for new exit routes to the prospect of a neo-bourgeois recovery (2003-2006)	263
X. The "mush" society. Italy on its way to its second metamorphosis (2007-2008)	267
CENSIS: AN OBSERVER ON THE WATCH
What is Censis?	270